

DEVELOPER FACT SHEET

Why We're Smart

Mercury Payment Systems is smart about software development. We designed our payment processing technology for easy, fast integration with POS systems and we continue to innovate with new products and services, such as free gift card transactions and loyalty programs. With our software development kit, adding full-service payment processing takes just a few weeks. We provide support for each step along the way, offering our security and technical expertise to your developers. Our secure and reliable payment processing supports the everyday transactions of your merchant customers.

What We Offer You

Individualized Development Services and Support: We partner with every developer individually to ensure secure and reliable integration of our payment processing technology.

Free MercuryGift™ Card Transactions: We continually upgrade our platform with new products such as free gift card processing so your POS system includes competitive offerings without raising costs.

Development Support: Our development partnerships include support and help from start to finish; you'll always have a resource to keep your development project moving forward.

Discounted Security Compliance Testing: We help with compliance testing and offer discounts for the review and testing process.

DEVELOPERS

Integrating our payment processing platform with the POS system adds value—and marketing power—to the POS offering. We provide channel partner training, co-branded marketing, and sales support to promote the competitive advantages of new POS integrations with Mercury.

How To Work With Mercury

1. Contact us by phone or fill out our online developer application.
2. We'll send you our SDK and give you a contact with our developer support group.
3. Throughout the development process, our developer support is always available to ensure high-quality integration.
4. Once development is complete, we'll guide you through security certification so that your system is ready to process payments out of the box.

Why Partner With Us

We are the original innovators of integrated payment processing. We continue to lead the market with progressive product offerings for merchants and superior technology and support for developers. Our payment processing products and services are tailored to small and medium-sized businesses including restaurants, retailers, theaters and more.
